THE REFORMED SYNOD.

Measures Adopted by That Body Recommend a Fixed Minimum Pastors' Salary—Next Meeting at Allentown.

Cure-alls, fake patent medicine and questionable financial, drink, cigar and cigarette advertising will be prohibited in all publications of the Reformed Church within the jurisdiction of the east Pennsylvania synod, according to a resolution adopted at the 167th annual convention in session at Sunbury.

St. John's church, Allentown, was chosen as the place of holding the 1914 meeting.

A $25,000 dormitory will be erected at the College for Women at Allentown, the churches of the synod to contribute to its cost.

Resolutions favoring the holding of the general synod every two years instead of every three and asking that body to fix a minimum pastors' salary at a living wage were adopted. These resolutions were unanimously favored and will be presented at the meeting of the general synod in Lancaster next year.

The standing committee on theology reported that there are too few students for the ministry. At present eighty young men are divinity students, and there are seventy-five vacancies in the synod's pulpits.

The Rev. Dr. Ellis N. Kremer, Harrisburg, urged that church aid to divinity students should not be looked upon as pauperizing. He said that the young man seeking an education at West Point or Annapolis is proud to accept government aid, and divinity students ought to be proud to accept the aid of their church.

The Rev. Dr. U. B. Schreder, president of the synod, announced that catechumen in the synod are raising a fund for the erection of a memorial tablet to Ursinus, the writer of the Heidelberg catechism, at Neustadt, Germany.

The following elections were made:

The Rev. Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, Harrisburg, state superintendent of public instruction, and the Rev. J. B. Kerschner, Freeland, to be members of board of trustees, Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster; Washington K. Heister, Lancaster; Dr. Eugene Santee, Philadelphia; James F. Hunsicker, Allentown, and Dr. H. F. Bitner, Centre Hall, trustees of Theological Seminary, Lancaster; the Rev. Robert O. Boyle, Sunbury member of board of visitors, Theological Seminary, Lancaster; the Rev. John S. Stahr, Lancaster, and the Rev. C. B. Schreder, Shamokin, trustees of Allentown College for Women; the Rev. Edgar V. Louchs, Blue Bell, dean of Allentown College for Women; George M. Lutz, Allentown, attorney in fact of synod; the Rev. Calvin M. DeLong, East Greenville, member advisory Sunday-school board.

ORATORICAL CONTEST.

Prof. R. U. Wasson Is Arranging for Such a Contest—Banks Offer Prizes.

Through the efforts of Prof. R. U. Wasson, principal of the Penn township school, an oratorical contest for male pupils of the public schools of Centre county is being arranged. The boy who is declared the winner will receive a prize of twenty-five dollars in gold, the gift of the First National Bank in Bellefonte.

The Millheim Banking Company, of Millheim, offers a prize of ten dollars in gold to the winner in District No. 1.

The following tentative plan for the contest will be submitted to the teachers for their approval at the annual county institute:

In order to encourage public speaking among the male pupils of the public schools of Centre county the First National Bank of Bellefonte offers a prize of twenty-five dollars in gold to the male pupil in the public schools of Centre county who shall excel in an oratorical or declamatory contest.

The county shall be divided into four districts and each district shall be entitled to two contestants, who shall be declared to be the winners or honor pupils in the several district contests.

No pupil who is a member of the third or fourth year class of a first-grade high school shall be allowed to enter the contest.

The judges of the county contest shall consist of the judge of the district court and the professor of English of the Pennsylvania State College, or persons named by them, and one person named by the county superintendent of schools.

The time and place of holding the contest shall be named by the judge of the district court and the county superintendent of schools. The principal of the schools of the town in which the contest is held shall preside at the contest, or some person named by him.

The time should be about one month after the district contest.

The names of the contestants shall appear on the program in alphabetical order.

The district contests shall be governed by the following conditions:

Each township and each borough high school shall be entitled to at least one pupil in the district contest. A township not maintaining a high school shall be entitled to have one pupil enter the contest.

The judges of the district contests shall consist of one person to be named by the judge of the district court, and two persons to be named by the county superintendent of schools. The county superintendent shall name the time and place of holding the contest, and also name a person to preside at the contest. (The time should be about the latter part of February.)

The directors and teachers of the several townships and boroughs may determine in what manner pupils shall be selected to represent the township or borough in the district contest.

The county superintendent should appoint one person in each district, and one for the county, to act as secretary; such person to arrange program of contest and keep a record of same.

District No. 1 shall consist of the following townships and all boroughs situated within them: Miles, Haines, Penn, Gregg, Potter and Harris.

No. 2—Ferguson, College, Benner, Spring, Marion, Walker, Patton and Half Moon.

No. 3—Liberty, Curtin, Howard, Boggs, Union, Huston, Worth and Taylor.

No. 4—Rush, Snow Shoe and Burnsides.

It is expected to have a local prize for each district.

Pennsylvania Day at State.

Friday, November 7th, has been set aside as the date for the celebration this year. The exercises of the day will consist of an inspection of especially interesting class and practice work; an address by His Excellency, Mirza Ali Kuli Kahn, Persian Minister to the United States, who will be introduced by Governor Tener; a County Fair organized and conducted by the students; a review of the regiment of 1800 college cadets; a military band concert; a glee club concert; and a game of football between Penn State and Notre Dame. By this varied program it is hoped to give visitors a glimpse of the life of the twenty-one hundred students now enjoying the benefits of an education provided largely by the munificence of the state.

P. O. Department Misrepresented

The fact that the postoffice department asked postmasters throughout the country to co-operate with county and state officials to improve the conditions of the roads, does not mean that the department has indorsed the proposed $50,000,000 loan in Pennsylvania. To put such a construction on the department's request is ridiculous.

THE FIFTY MILLION ROAD LOAN.

Twelve Reasons Why the Pennsylvania State Grange Opposes the Proposed Loan for Roads. The Grange has been the Pioneer of Good Roads and Favors Taxing Corporations for Road Purposes and the "Pay as You Go" Plan.

FIRST—It is not a good business proposition for any business to borrow money when it is not necessary. The State has abundant resources to construct roads without borrowing a dollar. We can now raise from current revenues from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 annually.

SECOND—Should more money be needed, the State Grange proposed a plan many years ago providing for a tax of one mill on corporate property. The Tax Commission reported to the last Legislature to the effect that if the bonds of corporations were taxed in the hands of corporations in place of the hands of the holder, $10,000,000 more could be added. Ex-Auditor Generals Young and Sisson said that even under present laws, with the necessary help, several millions could be added.

THIRD—Every cent of the tax on anthracite coal should go on the roads—that was the understanding. The Legislature appropriated for road purposes for 1913-14, $3,385,000 per year. Add to this the automobile licenses and we have $4,500,000 for roads annually. This answers the argument of our automobile friends who say $5,000,000 is all any Highway Department can spend intelligently and economically. Why borrow?

FOURTH—The interest and sinking fund charges on a $50,000,000 loan will require from $3,000,000 to $3,500,000 annually. On 50 year bonds the interest charges and principal would cost us $150,000,000 until paid. Why not pay as you go instead of working for a dead horse?

FIFTH—Years ago the State borrowed at various times sums amounting to about $50,000,000 for our public works, canals, etc. The interest and sinking fund charges plus the cost of repairing and maintaining them became so burdensome to the people that they were finally sold at a trifle. Shall we repeat that experiment?

SIXTH—Before submitting this question to the people some plan should have been worked out by the Highway Department so that the voters could vote intelligently. As the law now stands, this money, if the bond issue is carried, can all be spent in one county or used to build a national boulevard across the State. This may be a part of the plan of those who originated the bonding proposition.

SEVENTH—The Highway Department has proved itself inefficient and wasteful. It has disobeyed the law in not preparing bulletins to systematize and instruct township supervisors. It has issued no report since 1909. Mr. Bigelow claims to have built since June 1911, 297 miles of roads, the Auditor General's figures show 104 miles. Who is correct? The prices paid for roads for 1912-13 averages $20,000 per mile plus the extras and the overhead charges. Does any one know where we are at?

EIGHTH—The big corporations are for the bond issue in order to head off any change in the tax laws. The argument that the farmer pays no State tax is true as a direct proposition, but indirectly he pays not only his local taxes but is charged up with the taxes on corporations, either in added freight rates or decreased appropriations for schools and dirt roads. But if corporations pay for the good roads let them pay as we go. It will be cheaper and save a lot of book-keeping.

NINTH—New York has borrowed $100,000,000 for roads and road scandals. Ohio has borrowed no money and has three times as many miles of good roads as has New York. Ohio has equalization of taxation. All kinds of property pays the same mill rate and the maximum mill rate is fixed at 10½ mills. It is the same rate on a railroad as it is on a farm. The average mill rate on Pennsylvania farms is 18 and on corporate property 3 mills.

TENTH—The permanent road has not yet been discovered. Our expensive roads are lasting from two to ten years. It is a wrong principle to issue long time bonds for improvements that will be gone long before the bonds are due.

ELEVENTH—The farmers of the State have been deceived, ignored and buncoed in this whole road business. State aid for township roads provided for by law has been refused, the township roads stolen, and now under the new Township Road law, passed at the last session of the Legislature, the local road taxes are to be spent under the orders of the Highway Department. This department has neglected to maintain and keep in repair the roads now in their possession, and seems to know nothing about our dirt roads. Has no plans. It has now about 125 office holders and clerks at Harrisburg plus about 4,000 scattered over the State.

TWELFTH—The Grange believes that by defeating the bond issue the confusion and chaos in our road affairs will be systematized and all our roads improved in the course of 10 to 12 years, so that legislation can be passed to protect our roads and keep them in repair at the lowest possible cost.

Letters from Subscribers.

New York, Oct. 27, 1913.

Dear Mr. Smith:

I have been trying to get together a collection of relics of the old days in Central Pennsylvania. Perhaps if you insert the following advertisement for me twice it might bring results.

WANTED—Pennsylvania panther hide; Pennsylvania wolf hide, set Pennsylvania elk horns. Apply to H. W. SHOEMAKER, 71 Broadway, New York City.

There is a possibility that relics of this kind may still exist in some of the old attics and cubby-holes in old farm houses in the Seven Mountains. I have already gotten together quite an interesting collection, but it is far from complete. In the future, when I am no more, these things may form a museum collection of inestimable value to the people of this part of the State. I hope that this finds you enjoying the best of health. I remain,

Very sincerely yours,
HENRY W. SHOEMAKER

You will find draft inclosed for one dollar due on the Reporter. I saw in its columns this evening that you lost some good old folks by death, last week and this week,—Mr. Murray, Aunt Mary Breon, and Adam Krumrine. The time is getting shorter, the older we get. We cannot tell who will be next.

Very truly,
JOHN F. MULLEN.

THREATENED TO SHOOT THE JUDGE.

John Maguire, Convicted of Robbery, Got Five Years for Threat.

John Maguire, a wrestler known in the sporting world as "Sandow, the Hatless Wonder" was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary after he had threatened to shoot Judge Albert W. Johnson of Union county who was sitting on the Clinton county bench last week in place of Judge Harry Alvan Hall, who had previously given him two years for larceny.

Sandow had robbed several companions, while sleeping with them in a rooming house. He acted as his own attorney at his trial several days ago and was convicted on two counts. Lawyers and friends appealed for him when called for sentence, and Judge Johnson at first sentenced him on only one count.

As the wrestler was being taken back to jail, he declared he would shoot the judge upon his release. This was communicated to the court, who directed that the man he brought before him again. He then raised the sentence.

Leaving the court house the second time Maguire attacked an officer and knocked him to the ground, but did not escape.

$200 Per Day for Traveling Expenses.

You will get just a faint idea of what is meant by "overhead" charges in connection with road building when you recall that the Legislature appropriated $125,000 for the traveling expenses of the commissioner and his assistants for two fiscal years, or 600 working days, which is at the rate of $200 per day, and which is extravagant, to say the least.

The scandal monger is all ears, but the egotist is all I's.

The aviator would probably rather be hard up than down and out.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.

Teachers Training Class at Madisonburg Holds Exercises on Saturday Evening.

On Saturday evening the Madisonburg Teachers Training Class was graduated with exercises held in the Reformed church, in that village. The class was organized more than a year ago with twenty-five members, fourteen of whom received diplomas. The four Sunday-schools of the town had representatives in the class at its organization, at the graduation the Reformed and United Evangelical schools composed the class.

The teacher of the class for the larger part of the time was W. H Limbert. The program was as follows:

Miss Mabel Vonada	Mrs. Thomas Wise
Miss Mary Zeigler	Mr. Robert M. Zeigler
Mr. Boyd Hazel	Mr. W. H. Limbert

The address to the graduates was given by W. F. Ziegler, who took for his subject, "Opportunities." The stress of his remarks was laid on the side of self-help. No one may expect to do another much good, nor rise to a place of trust or worth or honor without a strong inherent ambition to lay hold of and develop the natural talents with which everyone is endowed. Opportunities for one's success in life are almost wholly of one's own creation.

It once was said:

"Everything comes to him who waits,"
But here is one that's slicker,
"The man who goes after what he wants,
Will get it all the quicker."

The class presented Mr. Limbert with a copy of a commentary on the Bible as an appreciation of his worth.

The Election Ballot.

The election ballot this year will be another blanket affair about as large as the ones used last November. Those of you who voted last year and remember the size of the sheet can get some idea how large the official sheet will be this year.

The largeness of the ballot this November is due to the fact that the proposed amendments to the constitution have to be printed upon the ballot. The Democratic party square will head the list this year, followed by the Washington. The Republican party square will be third on the ballot. Other party squares will follow according to the vote that each party received at the last election.

"Dry" Vote Concentrated.

Joseph W. Kyle, a Democratic no-license-non-partisan candidate for associate judge of Mifflin county, withdrew his candidacy in an open letter to the public, in which he requests his friends and supporters to cast their votes for George W. Sheary, who won a nomination with him on the same platform against seven other candidates, either admittedly "wet" or unpledged. This will give the drys but one condidate, and will insure his election.

Bill to Increase Free Delivery.

Congressman Warren Worth Bailey introduced a bill in congress to inaugurate free delivery of mail in all towns of $1000 population and over. The congressman claims that there are 6000 cities with an average of 2000 population that do not have free delivery, while the larger cities and country districts do enjoy this privilege.

New Laws for the Grocer.

According to the law which went into effect April 25, any merchant, who sells cold storage eggs as fresh eggs must, on complaint of customer, replace them with fresh eggs, or be liable to prosecution. It also provides that the merchant must replace spoiled eggs. Another ruling provides that anyone buying a box of strawberries or other fruits is entitled to a full quart and the merchant who sells less is subject to penalty.

The campaign in favor of the bond issue is full of inaccuracies, half-truths and untruths.

THAW INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

Four Others Named in Document By Grand Jury.

NEW WEAPON FOR JEROME.

Governor To Be Asked To Send Additional Papers Based On New Charge To New Hampshire.

New York.—A blanket indictment charging Harry K. Thaw and four others with conspiracy in connection with his escape from the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane in August, was returned by the grand jury here. It will be used as a weapon by William Travers Jerome in his efforts to extradite Thaw from New Hampshire.

The others indicted were former Assemblyman Richard Butler, Michael O'Keefe, "Gentleman Roger" Thompson and Eugene Duff, who are alleged to have been Thaw's companions in the automobile in which he escaped. These are the same men for whom warrants were issued in Dutchess county after Thaw's flight.

Bench warrants on the indictment were issued by the court and turned over to detectives of the district attorney's office.

Mr. Jerome announced that he would at once ask Governor Glynn for extradition papers based on the new charge to be sent to the governor of New Hampshire.

Moses H. Grossman, counsel for Thaw, was in the building when the indictment was returned. He denounced it as a subterfuge.

"A person who has been committed to an asylum as insane cannot be adjudged guilty of conspiracy," he said. "I do not believe the indictment will stand and I seriously doubt if it will in any way affect the status of the case in New Hampshire.

"I have all along contended that it is not the intention to try Mr. Thaw on any indictment, for the very obvious reason that no conviction could be had."

Smoke Seen Issuing From Second Level Not Believed To Have Come From the Fire.

Dadson, N. M.—Two hundred and thirty miners were entombed in Shaft No. 2 of the Stag Canon mines here when an explosion occurred at the property, according to an unofficial estimate.

General Superintendent Frank McDermott, of the mine, and several American miners are among those entombed.

Meager advices received were that only five miners had been taken alive from the upper level. These reports stated that most of the day shift were employed below the second level, where the shaft was blocked with debris resulting from the explosion.

Immediately after the explosion all shafts were called to the work of rescue and those miners who were employed in other shafts were put to work drilling through the debris which was said to have blocked the mine below the second level.

The United States rescue car stationed at Trinidad was summoned, and every available man in Dawson was aiding in the attempt to reach the entombed miners.

Rescuers worked heroically to supply air to the men. Reports from the mine did not state at which level the explosion occurred, simply that the mine shaft was blocked from the second level.

The mine property is owned by the Phelps-Dodge Company, of New York.

Five mines are connected in the workings, and it is thought that if any of the miners escaped death in the explosion they should be able to reach safety.

In the relief camps situated several yards from the entrance to mine No. 2 are gathered the women and children of the entombed miners. The miners' families are cheered by the knowledge that Superintendent McDermott is among the main body of miners entombed, and they have confidence, as have mine officials, in the superintendent's resources in such a disaster.

Dominican Republic Will Send Them To San Francisco.

Santo Domingo.—The bones of Christopher Columbus, now in the Cathedral here, will be sent to the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco as part of the Dominican Republic's exhibit, according to plans just announced. NEW CURE FOR MILITANCY.

Senator Saulsbury Tells Scotland Yard To Appoint Policewomen.

London.—Senator Saulsbury, of Delaware, who is here, advocated a new cure for militancy. He told Scotland Yard in all seriousness that they will never be able to deal with the "wild women" until the authorities have appointed women police, as Chicago has done. "If women had to deal with the suffragettes," he said, "all militancy would soon be squelched."

THEY CRAVE FOR INDEPENDENCE

Filipinos Resolution in Reply to Wilson's Message.

CLAIM RIGHT TO BE FREE.

Appointment Of Francis Burton Harrison As Governor General Accepted As Harbinger Of New Era.

Washington.—The answer of the Philippines to President Wilson's message, delivered through Governor General Harrison, came by cable in the form of a resolution adopted by the Philippine Assembly. Emphatic belief in the right of the Filipinos to be free is expressed in the resolution and the President's words are gratefully accepted as "a categorical declaration of the purpose of the nation to recognize the independence of the islands."

The text of the resolution, made public by the War Department, follows:

"We, the representatives of the Filipino, constituting the Philippine Assembly, solemnly declare that it is evident to us that the Filipino people have the right to be free and independent, so that in advancing along the road of progress it will, on its own responsibility, work out its prosperity and manage its own destinies for all the purposes of life. This was the aspiration of the people when it took up arms against Spain, and the presence of the American flag first on Manila Bay and then in the interior of the archipelago did not modify, but rather encouraged and strengthened the aspiration despite all the reverses suffered in war and difficulties encountered in peace.

"Being called to the ballot box, the people again and again ratified this aspiration and since the inauguration of the Philippine Assembly the national representative body has been acting in accordance with the popular will only; thus in the midst of the most adverse circumstances the ideal of the people never wavered and was respectfully and frankly brought before the powers of the sovereign country on every propitious occasion. On the other hand, our faith in the justice of the American people was as great and persistent as our ideal. We have waited in patience, confident that sooner or later all errors and injustices would be redressed."

DIAPHANOUS SKIRT HEALTHY.

Public Health Service Approves the Latest Styles In Gowns.

Washington.—Without attempting to pass upon questions of state or modesty the United States Public Health Service has put its stamp of approval upon all slit skirts and diaphanous gowns from the health standpoint. Assistant Surgeon General Rucker announced that "women wear too many clothes, any way," and that the woman who dresses in up-to-date style is less liable to catch cold these chilly days than one who loads down her body with heavy clothing.

SUES RAILROAD PRESIDENT.

Man Wants Damages Because a Trunk Was Smashed.

Minneapolis.—Thomas G. Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, was served with papers in a damage suit when he arrived here. A man in Chicago brought the action against the railroad because a trunk had been smashed. The action was unique, it being brought under a new law under the head of a foreign corporation temporarily within the State.

EX-SOLDIER SUES THEATRE.

Ousted For Standing When Band Played "Star-Spangled Banner."

Washington.—J. Frank Wahl, a former soldier, stood up when the band in a local theatre played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and was put out for creating disorder. He engaged a lawyer today to sue for damages.

WILSON PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING DAY

Washington.—President Wilson issued his first Thanksgiving proclamation as President of the United States, as follows:

The season is at hand in which it has been our long-respected custom as a people to turn in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for his manifold mercies and blessings to us as a nation. The year that has just passed has been marked in a peculiar degree my manifestations of His gracious and beneficent providence.

We have not only had peace throughout our own borders and with the nations of the world, but that peace has been brightned by constantly multiplying evidence of genuine friendship, of mutual sympathy and understanding and of the happy operation of many elevating influences, both of ideal and of practice.

The nation has been not only prosperous, but has proved its capacity to take calm counsel amid the rapid movement of affairs and deal with its own life in a spirit of candor, righteousness and comity. We have seen the practical completion of a great work at the Isthmus of Panama which not only exemplifies the nation's abundant resources to accomplish what it will and the distinguished skill and capacity of its public servants, but also promises the beginning of a new age, of new contrasts, new neighborhoods, new sympathies, new bonds and new achievements of co-operation and peace.

"Righteousness exalteth the nation" and "peace on earth, good will toward men" furnish the only foundations upon which can be built the lasting achievements of the human spirit. The year has brought us the satisfactions of work well done and fresh visions of our duty which will make the world of the future better still.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 27th of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wanted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God.

In witness whereof I have here unto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 23d day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1913, and of the independence of the United States of America the 138th.

WOODROW WILSON,
By the President.

MRS. PANKHURST LET IN.

But With Understanding That She Depart After Lecture Tour.

New York.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English militant suffragette leader, landed on Manhattan Island at 1 o'clock Monday from Ellis Island, where she had been detained by the immigration authorities. She had been ordered deported as an undesirable alien, but President Wilson and Secretary of Labor Wilson intervened on her appeal from this decision and instructed Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner-General of Immigration, to release her on her own recognizance and without bond, but with the understanding that she should depart when she had fulfilled her lecture engagements.

GOES TO CHILD'S AID; KILLED.

Young Girl and Her Niece Struck By Train.

Altoona, Pa. — Miss Mabel Keller, aged 21 years, was killed at the East Altoona passenger station while trying to save the life of her four-year-old niece, Marjorie McCarthy. The little girl was also killed. While the two were waiting at the station for a local train the child ran across the tracks as a fast express train approached. Miss Keller rushed in front of the train and had just caught the child in her arms when the pilot of the locomotive struck them and threw them aside. Both were dead when picked up.

SHAKE-UP IN PHILIPPINES.

Two Officials Of the Public Printing Office Dismissed.

Washington.—Edward E. Gessler, craftsman instructor in the public printing office of the Philippines, has been appointed to serve temporarily as director of printing, to succeed John S. Leach, who resigned at the request of Governor General Harrison. James Hoggsette, assistant director, also has been removed. Leach and Hoggsette ignored Governor General Harrison in sending to President Wilson and to the president of the Typographical Union in the United States a protest against an alleged contemplated salary cut. Officials here say no such cut was contemplated.

Protest Laxity of Laws Regulating Admission of Children to Picture Shows at Night—Governor Tener Thanks Federation for Work.

(Special Harrisburg Correspondence.)

Harrisburg. — A concerted movement against the present laxity of laws regulating the admission of children to moving picture shows at all hours of the night will be taken by the Federated Humane Societies of Pennsylvania.

The keynote of the address made at the opening of the seventh annual session of the federation in the Board of Trade by Frank McGrann, of Lancaster, president of the association, was the evils resulting from the effect of moving picture shows on the child.

He told of instances where boys had been influenced into emulating the deeds of the heroes of the moving picture melodramas with bad results. He called the moving picture show a growing evil that must be dealt with soon.

After the meeting one of the officers of the society in referring to the president's address, remarked: "The moving picture show evil is the one we'll have to deal with next, I suppose. It is a question we are forced to look into and will be discussed thoroughly."

Governor Makes Address.

Governor Tener, who delivered the address of welcome, said that the Federation was deserving of the thanks of the State for bringing to the attention of the Legislature the existence of conditions among the feeble-minded, the neglect of aged and the abatement of cruel treatment of animals.

The Rev. Harry Haywood, of Wilkes-Barre, made the invocation at the opening of the meeting. J. Clarence Funk, president of the Harrisburg Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, welcomed the delegates to this city, and after a short address handed the meeting over to President McGrann, who made an address reviewing the work of the society during the past year. He touched upon the passage of the cigarette law, stating the gratification of the society over its success in having more stringent laws passed. He said he hoped the day would soon come when the sale of cigarettes would be prohibited in the State.

Among the speakers in the informal discussion were the Rev. Harry Haywood, of Wilkes-Barre; Calvin G. Christie, of Butler; Frank B. Rutherford, of Philadelphia; M. A. Blazier, of Lebanon; James S. Bell, of Pittsburgh.

Chestnuts Are Abundant.

"Chestnuts this year are abundant in many sections in this part of the State and, while they are sweet and have a delicious flavor, I have noticed that they are small," said a farmer here. "The chestnuts raised around here are nearly all of the wild variety and, of course, the cultivated kind are larger because of the care given to them. I have seen some trees full of burrs in the last week, but all of the nuts were small."

State Medical Inspection.

The Medical inspection work which is about to be undertaken by the State is the most extensive ever known in this State, if not in any other State, and it means that something like a quarter of a million kids that need it most will be examined by physicians and advice given as to ways and means of taking care of them. It is interesting to note that Dauphin was one of the three counties to first adopt the system.

Bridge Applications Granted.

The Water Supply Commission approved twenty-six applications for construction of bridges, dams and other works, including one from the Cumberland county commissioners for a two-span bridge over the Conodoguinet in West Pennsboro township. The day's work was the most extensive ever acted upon by the commission. Six of the new bridges were authorized.

Governor Tener has announced the reappointments of Milton W. Lowry, of Scranton, and Thomas W. Barlow, of Philadelphia, as trustees of State College, and Dr. C. L. Johnstonbaugh, Bethlehem, and Dr. William Alvah Stewart, Pittsburgh, as members of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure.

Governor Tener fixed December 4 as the date of execution of Armstead Randolph, Philadelphia, and Rosario Gigliotti, alias Rosani Anisetta, McKean.

On Academy Faculty.

Lawrence W. Phipps, of Waterbury, Conn., has taken the place of Charles B. Hawes, as a member of the faculty of Harrisburg Academy. Mr. Hawes has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Youth's Companion. The new faculty member is a graduate of Yale, in the class of 1912, and has spent the past year in post-graduate work at that institution. The second of the series of talks to be given the Academy students will be given by George R. Wendling, who is now lecturing at Grace Church.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Varney, wife of a Confederate general, has lost one son and another is dying from wounds. She reluctantly gives her consent for Wilfred, the youngest, to join the army if his father consents. The federals are making their last assault in an effort to capture Richmond. Edith Varney secures from President Davis a commission for Capt. Thorne, who is just recovering from wounds, as chief of the telegraph at Richmond. Capt. Thorne tells Edith he has been ordered away. She declares he must not go and tells him of the commission from the president. Mr. Arrelsford of the Confederate secret service, a rejected suitor of Edith's, detects Jonas, Mrs. Varney's butler, carrying a note from a prisoner in Libby prison. Arrelsford suspects it is intended for Thorne. The note reads: "Attack tonight. Plan 3. Use Telegraph." Arrelsford declares Thorne is Lewis Dumont of the Federal secret service, and that his brother Henry is a prisoner in Libby. Edith refuses to believe and suggests that Thorne be confronted with the prisoner as a test. An order comes from General Varney for Wilfred to report to the front at once. Edith is forced to carry out her part in the test of Thorne. The prisoner is thrust into the room alone with Thorne, who recognizes him as his elder brother, Henry Dumont. They put up a fake fight and Henry accidentally kills himself. Caroline Mitford, Wilfred's sweetheart, goes to the war department telegraph office to send a message to Wilfred. Arrelsford suspects a double meaning and refuses to let it go through. He and Edith secrete themselves to watch Thorne, whose arrival Arrelsford expects. Thorne takes charge of the telegraph office. Arrelsford and Edith see Thorne alter a dispatch from the secretary of war. Thorns is shot in the wrist by Arrelsford when he attempts to send it. Arrelsford calls the guard, and when they appear Thorne turns the tables by ordering the arrest of Arrelsford. The removal of Arrelsford is stopped by the arrival of General Randolph. Thorne again begins sending the dispatch. Arrelsford protests, declaring Thorne is sending a forged order to weaken the lines of defense. Thorne is shot in the wrist by Arrelsford produces his commission as chief of telegraph. She, having seen enough to convince her he is a spy, begs him not to send the forged order. After she leaves he tears it up. Thorne plans to escape from Richmond. Arrelsford calls at the Varney home and demands to see Edith. Mrs. Varney refuses.

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

"Get out of my way," he said curtly; "I have a word or two to say to you after I have been upstairs."

"Show me your order," persisted the girl, who made not the slightest attempt to give way.

"It's department business and I don't require an order."

"You are mistaken about that," said Caroline with astonishing resourcefulness. "This is a private house, it isn't the telegraph office or the secret service department. If you want to go upstairs or see anybody against their will, you will have to bring an order. I don't know much, but I know enough for that."

Arrelsford turned to Mrs. Varney.

"Am I to understand, madam," he began, "that you refuse—"

But before Mrs. Varney could answer, the soldiers Arrelsford had brought with him gave way before the advent of a sergeant and another party of men. The sergeant advanced directly to Mrs. Varney, touched his cap to her, and began:

"Get Out of My Way," He Said Curtly.

"Are you the lady that lives here, ma'am?"

"Yes, I am Mrs. Varney."

"I have an order from General Randolph's office to search this house for—"

"Just in time," said Arrelsford, stepping toward the sergeant; "I will go through the house with you."

"Can't go through on this order," said the sergeant shortly.

"You were sent here to—" began Mrs. Varney.

"Yes; sorry to trouble you, ma'am, but we'll have to be quick about it. If we don't find him here we've got to follow him down Franklin street; he's over this way somewhere."

"Who are you? What do you want?"

"Man named Thorne, captain of artillery," answered the sergeant; "that's what he went by, at least. Here, two of you this way! That room in there and the back of the house. Two of you outside," pointing to the windows. "Cut off those windows. The rest upstairs."

The men rapidly dispersed, obeying the commands of the sergeant, and began a thorough search of the house. Caroline Mitford preceded them up the stairs to Edith's room. Arrelsford, after a moment's hesitation, stepped toward the door and went out, followed by his men. Without a word of acknowledgment or even a bow to Mrs. Varney, he and his men presently left the house. As he did so, two of the sergeant's men re-entered the room, shoving old Jonas roughly before them. The man's livery was torn and dirty, his head was bound up, and he showed signs of the rough handling he had undergone.

"Where did you get that?" asked the sergeant contemptuously.

"He was locked in a closet, sir."

"What were you doing in there?" He turned to the old negro. "If you don't answer me, we will shoot the life out of you." He raised his revolver threateningly. "Belongs to you, I reckon," he said to Mrs. Varney.

"Yes, my butler; they locked him up. Mr. Arrelsford wants him for carrying a message."

"That's all right," said the sergeant. "If he wants him, he can have him. We're looking for some one else. Put him back in his closet. Here, this room! Be quick now! Cover that door. Sorry to disturb you, ma'am."

"Do what you please," said Mrs. Varney; "I have nothing on earth to conceal."

As the men hurriedly withdrew to continue their search, the voice of a newcomer was heard on the porch. The words came to them clearly:

"Here, lend a hand, somebody, will you?"

The next moment General Varney's orderly entered the room, caught sight of the sergeant, saluted, and then turned to Mrs. Varney.

"I've brought back your boy, ma'am," he said.

"Oh!" exclaimed Mrs. Varney faintly; "what do you mean—"

"We never got out to General Varney's. We ran into a Yankee raiding party, cavalry, down here about three miles. Our home-guard was galloping by on the run to head them off, and before I knew what he was about, the boy was in with 'em, riding like mad. There was a bit of a skirmish, and he got a clip across the neck. Nothing at all ma'am. He rode back all the way, and—"

"Oh, my boy! He's hurt—he's hurt—"

"Nothing serious, ma'am; don't upset yourself," returned the orderly reassuringly.

"Where did you—"

But that moment the object of their solicitude himself appeared on the scene. The boy was very pale, and his neck was bandaged. Two of the sergeant's men supported him.

"Oh, Wilfred!" cried his mother; "my boy!"

"It's nothing, mother," said Wilfred, motioning her away. "You don't understand." The boy tried to free himself from the men who still held him by the arm. "What do you want to hold me like that for?" he expostulated, as he drew himself away and took a few steps. "You see I can walk," he protested.

His words were brave, but his performance was weak. His mother came close to him and extended her arms toward him.

"How do you do, mother?" he said. "You didn't expect me back so soon, did you? I will tell you how it was. Don't you go away, orderly. I will just rest a minute, and then I will go back with you." Another outburst of the cannon and the frantic pealing of the alarm bells caught his attention. "See, they are ringing the bells calling out the reserves." He started toward the door. "I will go right now."

"No, no, Wilfred," said his mother, taking his arm; "not now, my son."

"Not now?" said Wilfred, whose weakness was growing apparent. "Do you hear those—those—those bells and—then tell me not—to go—why—"

He swayed and tottered.

"Stand by there!" cried the sergeant.

The two men immediately caught hold of him as he fainted. They carried him to the lounge.

"Find some water, will you?" continued the sergeant. "Put his head down, ma'am, and he'll be all right in a minute. He's only fainted."

One of the privates who had hurried off in search of water soon came back with a basin full, with which Mrs. Varney laved the boy's head.

"He'll be all right in a minute," said the sergeant. "Come, men."

He turned as he spoke, and, followed by the men, left the room, leaving Mrs. Varney with Wilfred and the orderly. It was the latter who broke the silence.

"If there isn't anything else, ma'am, I believe I'd better report back to the general."

"Yes," said Mrs. Varney, "don't wait. The wound is dressed, isn't it?"

"Yes; I took him to the Windsor hospital. They said he would be on his feet in a day or two, but he wants to be kept pretty quiet."

"Tell the general how it happened."

"Very well, ma'am," said the orderly, touching his cap and going out.

The next person to enter the room was Caroline Mitford. The noise of the men searching the house was very plain. Having informed Edith of the meaning of the tumult, she had come downstairs to inquire if they had found Thorne. She came slowly within the door—rather listlessly, in fact. The exciting events of the night in which she had taken part had somewhat sapped her natural vivacity, but she was shocked into instant action when she saw Wilfred stretched upon the sofa.

"Oh!" she breathed in a low, tense whisper; "what is it? Is he—"

"Caroline dear," said Mrs. Varney, "it is nothing serious. He isn't badly hurt. He was cut in the neck and fainted. There, there—" the woman rose from Wilfred's side and caught the girl—"don't you faint, too, dear."

"I am not going to faint," said Caroline desperately. She took Mrs. Varney's handkerchief from the latter's hand, and dipped it in the water. "I can take care of him," she continued, kneeling down by her boyish lover. "I don't need anybody down here at all. The men are going all over the house and—"

"But, Caroline—" began Mrs. Varney.

"Mrs. Varney," returned the girl, strangely quiet, "there's a heap of soldiers upstairs, looking in all the rooms. I reckon you'd better go and attend to them. They will be in Edith's room, or Howard's, in a minute."

"Yes, yes," said Mrs. Varney, "and Howard so ill. I must go for a few minutes, anyway. You know what to do?"

"Oh, yes," answered the girl confidently.

"Bathe his forehead. He isn't badly hurt, dear. I won't be long, and he will soon come to, I am sure," said Mrs. Varney, hastening away.

Presently Wilfred opened his eyes. He stared about him unmeaningly and uncomprehendingly for the moment.

"Wilfred, dear Wilfred," began the girl in soft, low, caressing tones, "you are not hurt much, are you? Oh, not much. There, you will feel better in just a moment, dear Wilfred."

"Is there—are you—?" questioned Wilfred, striving to concentrate his mind on the problem of his whereabouts and her presence.

"Oh, Wilfred, don't you know me?"

"What are you talking about?" said Wilfred more strongly. "Of course I know you. Where am I?" And as full consciousness came back to him, "What am I doing, anyway? Taking a bath?"

"No, no, Wilfred; you see I am bathing your head. You fainted a little, and—"

"Fainted!" exclaimed Wilfred in deep disgust. "I fainted?" He made a feeble attempt to rise, but sank back weakly. "Yes, of course, I was in a fight with the Yankees and got wounded somewhere."

He stopped, puzzled, staring strangely, almost afraid, at Caroline.

"What is it?" asked the girl.

"See here," he began seriously; "I will tell you one thing right now. I am not going to load you up with a cripple, not much."

His resignation was wonderful.

"Cripple!" exclaimed Caroline, bewildered.

"I reckon I've got an arm knocked off, haven't I?"

"No, you haven't, Wilfred; they are both on all right."

"Perhaps it was a hand that they shot away?"

"Not a single one," said Caroline.

"Are my—my ears on all right?"

"Yes," answered the girl. "You needn't bother about them for a moment."

Wilfred staked all on the last question.

"How many legs have I got left?"

"All of them," answered Caroline; "every one!"

"Then, if there's enough of me left to—to amount to anything—you'll take charge of it, just the same? How about that?"

"That's all right," said the girl, burying her face on his shoulder.

Wilfred got hold of her hand and kissed it passionately. He seemed quite strong enough for that.

"I tried to send you a telegram but they wouldn't let me," whispered Caroline suddenly, raising her head and looking at him.

"You did?"

"Yes."

"What did you say in it?"

But here the girl's courage failed her.

"Tell me what you said," persisted Wilfred.

"It was something very nice," faltered poor Caroline.

"It was, eh?"

"Yes."

"Was it as nice as this?" asked Wilfred, suddenly lifting his head and kissing her.

"I don't know about that," stammered Caroline, blushing a beautiful crimson, "but it was very nice. I wouldn't have tried to telegraph it if it was something bad, would I?"

"Well, if it was so good," said Wilfred, "why on earth didn't you send it?"

"Goodness gracious!" exclaimed Caroline; "how could I when they wouldn't let me?"

"Wouldn't let you?"

"I should think not. They had a dreadful time at the telegraph office."

"At the telegraph office; were you there?" Wilfred made a violent effort to recollect. "I have it," he said in stronger tones; "they told me at the hospital. I must get up."

"Oh, Wilfred, Don't You Know Me?"

"No, no; you mustn't," said Caroline, interposing.

"Don't," said Wilfred; "I have to attend to it." He spoke with a stern, strange decision, entirely foreign to his previous idle love-making. "I know all about Thorne. He gets hold of our department telegraph and sends out a false order, weakens our defenses at Cemetery Hill." The boy got to his feet by this time, steadying himself by Caroline's shoulder. "They are down on us in a moment." A look of pain, not physical, shot across his face, but he mastered it. "And she gave it to him, the commission; my sister Edith!" he continued bitterly.

"Oh!" said Caroline; "you know—"

"I know this. If my father were here, he'd see her. As he isn't here, I will attend to it. Send her to me."

He spoke weakly, but in a clear voice and a most imperative manner.

"Send her to me."

"No," said Caroline faintly, just as Mrs. Varney re-entered the room.

"What is it?" asked the mother.

"He wants to see Edith," returned the girl.

"Not now, Wilfred," persisted Mrs. Varney; "you are weak and ill, and Edith—"

"Tell her to come here, I must see her at once," repeated Wilfred.

Mrs. Varney instantly divined the reason. Caroline had told him about the telegraph office, but she could see no advantage to be gained by the interview he sought.

"I won't do you any good, Wilfred," she said. "She won't speak a word to anybody about it."

"I don't want her to speak to me," returned the boy grimly; "I am going to speak to her."

"But some other time, Wilfred," urged his mother.

"No, no; immediately," but as no one made the slightest effort toward complying with his demand, "Very well," he continued, moving slowly toward the door, and by a determined effort keeping his feet. "If you won't send her to me, I will—"

"There, there," said Mrs. Varney, interposing swiftly; "if you must, you must. Since you insist, I will call her."

"I do insist."

"Stay with him, dear," said Mrs. Varney to Caroline, "and I will go and call her."

"No," said Wilfred, "I want to see her alone."

Cleave to the good, and use a cleaver on the bad.

MOVING AIR A REGENERATOR

Why One May Sleep on the Ground in Certain Localities Without Any Ill Effect.

In these days of apartments many people must sleep rather close to the ground. The ventilation here cannot be as good as it is higher and sunlight is usually almost an impossibility. The renting agent pointed out the fact to a tenant the other day that the sunlight, during part of the day, fell on the wall opposite and was reflected. It was pathetic.

Nevertheless, it is true that in any reasonably healthful climate, not infected by swamp miasma, people sleep on the ground in the open not only in safety, but with a distinct hygienic gain. It is particularly true of mountain or high hill regions. Men, out camping, have awakened in the morning to find themselves lying almost immersed in the water of sudden rains, and yet have experienced no ill effect. All of this leads us back to a previous statement that the system thrives when air has a chance to search in and circulate in contact with the flesh. It stimulates and electrifies.

Genial Companion.

A man who never reminds his friends of unwelcome facts or tells them unpleasant truths is sure to be liked, and when a man of such a turn comes to old age he is almost sure to be treated with respect.

It is true, indeed, that we should not dissemble or flatter in company, but a man may be very agreeable strictly consistent with truth and sincerity by a prudent silence where he cannot concur, and a pleasant assent where he can.

Now and then you meet with a person so exactly formed to please that he will gain upon everyone who hears or beholds him; this disposition is not merely a gift of nature, but frequently the effect of much knowledge of the world and a command over the passions. Frequently that which is called candor is merely malice.

GREAT BRITAIN MAKES DENIAL

In Sending a Warship To Mexico It Does Not Intend To Embarrass the United States.

Washington.—The United States Government is preparing to notify the nations of the world generally that any interference in Mexican affairs will be regarded as unfriendly to this Government.

President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and Counselor John Bassett Moore, of the State Department, has exchanged ideas on what the proclamation to the world should express. It will be communicated to foreign governments everywhere, in line with the policy established earlier of keeping other nations informed of every step taken in its handling of the Mexican problem.

The proclamation, or note, also will serve, it is understood, as an explicit definition of the policy of the United States toward the de facto authorities in Mexico, reiterating the principle that recognition can only be given to governments on this hemisphere founded on law and order.

Two things, it is known, have contributed to the determination of the government to define its policy—the presentation by Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister to Mexico, of his credentials immediately after Huerta had proclaimed himself dictator and the dispatch of several war vessels to Mexican waters.

The British Embassy here at the direction of the Foreign Office officially advised Secretary Bryan that the British Government pronounced as unauthentic the now famous interview credited to Sir Lionel expressing the view that the United States did not understand conditions in Mexico.

The British Foreign Office based its denial of Sir Lionel's interview on "a denial from Sir Lionel himself." The published interview represented the Minister as unsympathetic with the policy of the United States.

Another incident that was regarded with significance was the assurance that came from Ambassador Jusserand to the State Department that the French Government in sending a warship to Mexican waters did not intend in any way to embarrass the United States. Officials indicated satisfaction over the apparent trend of the French Government's attitude.

There is a possibility that if the powers indicate further an unwillingness to embarrass the United States that this government may withhold its pronouncement, but some officials were of the opinion that sooner or later such a declaration, which they regarded as tantamount to a reafirmation of the principles of the Monroe Doctrine, would be required.

JAMES POTTER GREGG.

Tyrone School Principal and Councilman, a Product of Potter Township, Died in Prime of Life.

The news of the death of James Potter Gregg, on Saturday evening, was a shock to this community, the home of his birth and boyhood. His illness began on Wednesday previous, but for several months his general health had not been as good as previ- friends wished. Death was due to paralysis, and occurred at the home of Mrs. Catharine Boger, where he and Mrs. Gregg had been boarding.

Services were held at the Boger home on Sunday afternoon by Rev. W. W. Hartman, pastor of the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev. H. W. Bieber, of the Presbyterian church. The remains were then shipped to the home of the Misses Julia and Susan Gregg, Milesburg, from where the funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon. The services were in charge of the local pastor of the Methodist church. Rev. G. C. King of Everett, and Rev. C. M. Piper, personal friends of the deceased, spoke at the services. Interment was made in the Gregg family burying plot, Union cemetery, Bellefonte.

Mr. Gregg was born on the Gregg farm, west of Centre Hall, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gregg, both deceased. He attended the local schools in the township and borough, and acquired an education much above the average public school pupil, and at one time was spoken of as a possible candidate for the office of superintendent of public schools in Centre county. Almost his whole life was given to school work in one capacity or the other. At the time of his death he was principal of the Adams Avenue school, Tyrone. He had been engaged in that city as an instructor for a number of years. He secured his first position with the Tyrone school board by his willingness to teach a school, the pupils of which had shattered the reputations of several teachers. The acceptance of the position was not without the promise of the school board to give him a free hand. The fine physique of the man, that jaw indicating determination, appealed to the board, and all demanded concessions were made. Mr. Gregg surprised his employers in his method of teaching and governing. The muscle and what the jaw indicated were a reserve. The tactics were closely patterned after the Lindsey ideas, and many were the amusing experiences as related by him to the writer. From this position Mr. Gregg rose to that of principal as stated above. He was held in high esteem by his fellow teachers, and at his bier, on the day of burial, nearly all the teachers gathered.

It was not only in school work that Mr. Gregg was honored in Tyrone, but confidence in his judgment was shown by electing him a member of the council. He was prominently identified with the Allegheny Gateway lodge, No. 187, Independent Order of Odd Fellows; Tyrone encampment and the canton branches; also of the Foresters, Modern Woodmen and Knights of Malta.

There survive the deceased his wife, Mrs. Mollie Sankey Gregg, and these brothers and sisters: John, of Raton, N. M.; Andrew, of Allentown; Mrs. Mary Miller of Raton, N. M., and Mrs Annie Elmiston of State College

Mr. Gregg was aged forty-seven years and a few days.

GRACEFUL IN SERGE

SMART COSTUME THAT HAS CHARM ALL ITS OWN.

For Durability, Style and Smartness It Is Doubtful if Any Material Can Be Made to Rival This Popular Material.

Not all the graceful frocks this fall are built of silks and satin, though it must be admitted they are generally first choice. More than occasionally, however, one comes across distinctly smart costumes in prosaic serge, and who can deny its charm?

Blue serge, which is always in style, is a craze this year. The woman who has not been made happy in the possession of one gown of it is an exception. We all know of its durability, style and smartness. Still, with all its popularity, it does not appear in the least common nor in any sense a uniform, as would certainly be the case were the color any other than navy.

A sensible and not over elaborate dress design for fall street wear or traveling is sketched for today, and is developed in blue serge. There is a wide armholed blouse, with long sleeves cut in one, and with front edges that cross over each other, buttoning with a line of small magenta ball buttons and loops.

The back of the blouse is very slightly gathered to the shallow yoke, starting at the shoulder seams and covering the entire shoulder breadth. The V-neck has a fold of embroidered crepe done in blue and magenta set along the edges to give the effect of a tiny vest. Then there is a rolling collar and a small tucker of white crepe. The knotted silk tie and crushed girdle can either be of black or magenta.

The skirt has an interesting tunic made to open on the left side in a line with the waist opening. It buttons along the edge near the end of the overlapping corner, with more ball buttons and loops. The lower line of this tunic slopes away from the center front.

GERMS CARRIED BY TONGUE

One of the Most Frequent Causes of Bad Teeth Is Not Generally Understood.

How many, or rather how few women know that the tongue carries disease germs to the teeth. Foreign particles frequently adhere to the rough or upper side of the tongue, and beside it is often coated with what is called "dental fur." This fur is a yellowish white substance and is found on the teeth and tongue of every one who does not clean his or her teeth and mouth at least twice a day. This deposit usually forms so quickly that even the most fastidious have sometimes to be careful lest it settle on the teeth.

If the teeth cannot be brushed frequently during the day, then it is advisable to brush them the first thing in the morning and the last thing before retiring at night. These two acts alone, if the teeth and mouth and tongue are properly cleansed, will do much toward preserving the teeth.

So many women brush the teeth in a hap-hazard fashion. They brush vigorously enough, but they are not particular enough to see that the brushing is carried on properly. The brush is wet and then sprinkled with powder, the teeth get a quick brushing on the outer surface, very little attention given to the inside, and usually the brushing consists of the crosswise stroke. Of course this is a little better than nothing, as it removes surface accumulations, and not always that.

FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Matter of Diet Is Highly Important, if One Would Acquire and Preserve Good Looks.

All of the fresh fruits add their quota of usefulness to the diet, and eaten plentifully will help to keep you well and pretty. There is a legend that one famous French beauty lived exclusively on oranges, but common sense tells us that she occasionally slipped in a meal of things more substantial. The thin girl will do well to eat largely of raisins, for they contain a rich proportion of sugars that are so fattening. Train yourself to eat a variety of foods. Many a girl with a bad complexion owes it to the fact that she grew up with the foolish habit of eating only a few favorite dishes. The different fruits and vegetables contain a variety of salts, all valuable to the body, and the natural appetite demands a change, even from the best and most nutritious fare. Eat generously of the fruits and vegetables the season affords, but—just one word of caution—see to it that they are fresh. A single helping of tomatoes that have begun to spoil, a bit of dessert made of overripe or stale berries, a glass of milk that has been exposed to the summer dust, any of these things may give rise to one of those little spells known as "summer complaint."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Upturned Hems.

The innovation in upturned hems on the outside of the skirt has given the colorists another chance to put in a dash of tone that will contrast with the rest of the skirt. As Roman stripes and Scotch plaids continue to reappear, on the best of the new clothes, it is only natural that they should find an abiding place at the bottom of the skirt or at the edge of one of those wired tunics that are made of all kinds of thin material.

There is a dark-blue coat suit of gabardine which has a two-inch hem of red, white and blue plaid bound with a black velvet ribbon at the top; the coat does not have a collar of the plaid which is the first thing one thinks of its having, but the Scotch silk shows up as envelope flaps to the three pockets, which are edged with a black velvet ribbon and fastened over a black velvet button.

WHEN HUBBY TAKES OUTING

He Will Surely Appreciate It If His Comfort Is Looked After Before He Starts.

If the autumn outing of the husband, father or brother is to be made thoroughly delightful, he must be provided with all the new contrivances. If he is a confirmed golfer, see to it that he has a long, flat trunk to hold his golf sticks and a caddy bag of duck reinforced with leather.

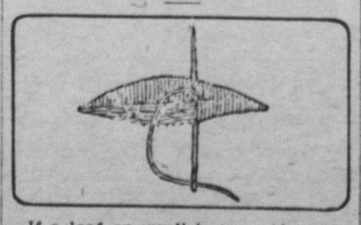
Is he a fisherman? Then his fishing basket must be of wicker harnessed with leather and provided with a wide sling strap that goes across the chest. But don't forget that he needs a tackle box in leather with compartments in both base and lid for fishing accessories, as well as a morocco case containing a complete repairing kit—rotary screwdriver, hook file, nippers, pliers, tweezers, punch, wrapping linen, cement, wax, emery cloth, polishing paper and drop oil can.

The hunter needs an unbreakable lunch outfit in a leather case; a luminous compass dial with a floating bar needle, in an oxidized case, and a leather bracelet fitted with a watertight lid, silver-encased watch.

Gift for Boarding School Girl.

Some of the trifles which the boarding school girl will appreciate when she leaves home for the first time are writing desk fittings. Give her a package of large-sized blotting pads, a leather-encased ink bottle with a snap lid, a box with compartments for pens, case pencil leads, postage stamps, baggage tags and a ball of string or an inkstand composed of bottles for two colors of writing fluid and a third bottle for mucilage. You may be very sure that she'll welcome a brass memorandum pad with a chain-attached pencil, a small leather-covered pin cushion fitted with pins of various sizes, and a gunmetal pocket knife, with which to point her lead pencils. But whatever you do don't forget to supply her with the newest thing in portable mothproof chests, which comes in heavy pasteboard, is light in weight, and can easily be transported in the boarding school trunk.

DIVIDED SATIN-STITCH

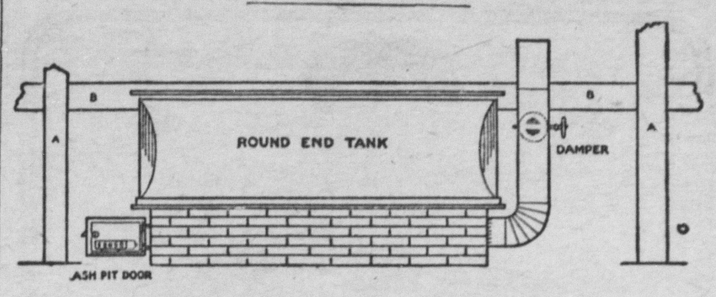


If a leaf or scroll is too wide to be worked in satin-stitch, it may be divided on the center line and worked in two sections. If a leaf is veined, lay the padding in two sections.

Monograms.

French knots make a very handsome monogram, especially in old English. No padding is required, and the papier-mache letters cannot be used. Stamp the monagram upon the article, and then simply fill it in closely and solidly with small French knots. The result will be highly satisfactory.

TANK FOR HEATING WATER FOR STOCK.



(By A. O. STEIN.)

Last fall we tried the new way of heating water for our stock. The tank heaters are not in it, because they heat only a very small part of water in tank, and they take short wood, while by firing under tank, you may use old posts or any wood not more than length of fireplace, in this case six feet. The ash pit door is 12x16 inches. At lower part of door we put a one-eighth by two-inch slide, held in place by three rivet heads, rivets driven just tight enough to hold in place, so slide works easily. Through slide and door we drilled four three-quarter-inch holes, one and a quarter inch apart (center of holes). This gives the draft and can be made to keep fire going over night. No ice on water and cattle don't stand around shivering with cold after drinking. Some make wooden tanks and nail on galvanized bottom. This works all-right, too.

To save a few bricks we dug a trench long enough for tank and door; the trench was fully eight inches narrower than tank to allow a row of bricks on each side for tank to rest on. Trenching was not good, for during early spring, when earth was heated, it caved in on the side where cattle were.

It is better to build on top of ground and fill up on one side. At door end we put three bricks across under frame and three over it; this being the width of tank. (It takes about 140 bricks to build on top of ground.) At pipe end used pieces of brick, but put pipe too low, so that ashes stopped it up. To remedy this we set up some old sheetiron across back part of fireplace, but not so as to obstruct draft. It is not so convenient to put wood in under tank when a pit is dug.

Fence shown is on cattle side, to keep them away from door and pipe. They drink over fence. Posts "a," "a," should be set close to ends of tanks, so that board or plan "b" does not break so easily.

Cement may be used in place of brick. As we did not expect to have tank set permanently in place where we had same, we used blue clay for mortar.

IMPORTANCE OF TRAP NESTS

No Other Method by Which Poultryman Can Learn True Condition of Birds in His Flock.

(By L. M. BENNINGTON.)

They tell us which are best winter layers, and the number of eggs laid throughout the year.

They are guides to success.

They pick out the drones that we may know the workers.

They arrest the egg-eaters; catching them in the very act.

They pick out the layers of the brownest eggs, and the shape and size of the product.

They make the hens tame, owing to frequent handling, and this in itself has a tendency to increase the egg production.

They prevent crowding on the nest, and thus avoid breakage of eggs.

They enable us to set eggs from the best layers, and in this way we increase the laying capacity of the flocks.

Trap nests do not consume as much time in their care as some writers would make one believe. Fifty traps can be attended to in from five to ten minutes, according to the convenience of location. If a trip is made five or six times a day, say in the morning when opening up the house, then four trips between the hours of nine in the morning and three in the afternoon, and then when closing the houses at night, there will be in all consumed not much more than half an hour each day. That half hour's work is more profitable than any hour's work, and when fully understood, becomes an imperative order.

Trap nests permit of no guess work. No other method can equal it, as there is no other way by which we can learn the true condition of our stock as well as a correct report of what they are doing.

Truly the invention of the trap-nest has revolutionized egg-farming.

GRANARY MADE MOUSE-PROOF

Structure Is Placed on Cement Blocks or Stones With Piece of Tin or Sheet Iron on Top.

(By JAMES P. MORE, in the Farm and Fireside.)

This mouse-proof granary is built on cement blocks or stones. Under the sills and on top of the blocks is placed a piece of sheet iron or tin; this keeps the mice from the building. The steps are hung on hinges, and can be lifted and hooked to ropes hanging in the awning. I have used this plan, and have never been troubled with rats.

Mouse-Proof Granary.

Improves Vegetables.

Horseradish, parsnips, salsify, etc., may be left in the ground well on into winter. Frost will not hurt them, in fact these roots are improved by freezing.

Utilize Pleasant Days.

The pleasant days of winter might be utilized cutting the old canes from the raspberry bushes and in trimming the orchard.

Vermin Scarce.

Sickness and lice are scarce articles where poultry quarters are kept dry and clean.

STILE IS OFTEN CONVENIENT

Same Steps Are Used for Ascending and Descending and Can Be Used Between All Fields.

A stile like this one can be made much more readily than one requiring a double flight of steps. Posts for the support can be set while setting the posts for the fence. As will be seen, says the Southern Agriculturist, the same steps are used for ascending and descending, going up one side, stepping over the top wire and going down on the other. This is a great convenience where there must be passing from field to field where there are no gates. It could be used between all the fields on the farm without much expense or trouble.

DAIRY NOTES

Start the cows in on a balanced ration this fall.

The boss of the herd is not always the best cow.

Keep the high milk flow going as long as you can.

Just a little bad cream may spoil a whole batch of butter.

It pays to keep a dairy theremometer wherever cows are milked.

There is something wrong with the dairy cow offered for sale cheap these days.

The man with enough feed and sows coming fresh this fall, has no kick coming.

A promising heifer calf at any kind of reasonable price is safe buying these days.

A bunch of good shoats will make the best market for skimmilk this fall and winter.

Dairying is no business for the man who intends to stick to it for only a year or two.

A silo will double the amount of milk produced to the acre and cuts the cost of producing it in two.

Strong brine thickened with soft soap makes a good mixture to rid cows and calves of lice.

A cow with a big appetite is nothing to be afraid of. The more she eats the more milk she will give.

It is cheaper to be always prepared for milk fever than to call the veterinary, in most cases, once.

The amount of milk a cow will yield depends as much upon the dairyman as it does on the cow herself.

It is far better to put shock corn into the silo, wetting it with water as you fill, than to have no silage.

Now is the time to teach the fall heifer freshening for the first time an object lesson in milk production.

HUMANE SOCIETIES MEET

Seventy-Eight Carloads of Feeders Cheaper Than Western Cattle Eagerly Bought—All of Short-Horn Breed—Equal to Lancaster's Best.

Lancaster.—The first proof of the Underwood tariff law was seen, in the arrival of a carload of Canadian butcher cattle. They were sold to a local butcher at a price that will enable him to retail the meat products at lower figures than his former output. There were also 78 cars of Canadian feeders, all of which sold at a lower price than Western cattle, and they were eagerly bought by farmers.

For many years the opinion has prevailed in this section of the country that Canada had no beef cattle and that the cattle industry of the Dominion was confined to the growing of stockers and feeders. F. B. McClain, the president of the Lancaster Live Stock Exchange, was in Buffalo, on a cattle buying expedition, and he brought home with him this car of Canadian beef cattle in order that a visual contradiction of the opinion locally held concerning Canadian cattle might be furnished. This car of cattle had never been within sight of even a corn field or within miles of a bean crib, and their diet was confined to the pasture foods of the Province of Ontario. They were of the short-horned breed, all reds and roans in color, and carried with them a ripeness and finish not excelled by Lancaster county's best stall fed steers in the May time or June time of the year.

Next week several carloads of butcher cattle will be brought from Canada.

Spite Deed Cripples Mill.

Coatesville.—Vitrol mysteriously thrown on two 250 horsepower motors and on one of 50 horsepower, caused $6,000 damage and practically put the Megargee paper mills, Modena, out of commission, while the disappearance of an employe has added to the sensation created in that hamlet. Several hundred persons will be thrown out of work temporarily.

Two weeks ago the motors were ruined by vitrol. The firm put detectives on the case. The theory is that an employe who desired to be boss of motors when another man was placed at the head became dissatisfied and took this form of revenge.

The sensation caused by the deed, was at its height, when Carl Young, a fireman at the plant, left home mysteriously. In his dinner bucket his wife found a note, which read: "I am sorry for what I have done." Although friends have been searching the neighborhood for miles around, no trace has been found of the fireman. He has a wife and one child, was an industrious workman and bore an excellent reputation.

Wife Too Loud for Him.

Pittsburgh.—That his wife Eleanor Pastorious O'Brien, made it her business unknown to him, to inspect his bank and check book; that she "gabbed" incessantly and in a boisterous manner when on the street cars or in public places, to his intense mortification; that she wore flashy dresses and hats, which always aroused comment; that her temper and disposition was worse than hell's fury and that she was in the habit, when seeking him, of asking the attaches of the office, "where the old hornswoggler was," were some of the startling statements made by City Solicitor C. A. O'Brien during his testimony in his suit for divorce against his wife in Court here.

O'Brien said that his wife's fits of temper began two weeks after marriage and had continued intermittently ever since. Profanity, according to O'Brien, dropped from the tongue of his wife in a most fluent and natural manner.

Out of $300 which he allowed her monthly for household expenses, O'Brien declared, he could not get a clean laundered shirt.

Out of Race for Judge.

Lewistown.—Joseph W. Kyle, democrat, no-license, non-partisan candidate for Associate Judge, withdrew his candidacy in an open letter to the public, in which he requests his friends and supporters to cast their votes for George W. Sheary, who won the nomination with him on the same platform against seven other candidates who were either admittedly wet or refused to pledge themselves.

Burglar Charge Kills Boy.

Allentown.—Edwin Snyder, 10-year-old son of Albert E. Snyder, a farmer, at Stine's Corner, was shot and instantly killed by his brother Charles, aged 12, while at play in the house. The gun contained a shell which the father had placed in it the night before, when there was a robber scare at the home and which he had forgotten to remove. The boys were descending the stairs, planning a gunning trip, when the contents of the gun tore the side of the youth's head away.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Dun's review says:

"Distribution of merchandise in some sections reflects the stimulus of seasonable weather, while industrial operations, apart from iron and steel, are expanding. Decided improvement appears in some merchantile lines, uniformly encouraging advices being received from the leading trade centers, which scarcely an exception report a larger volume of business than a year ago.

"Failures during the week numbered 323 in the United States against 248 last year, and 39 in Canada, compared with 32 a year ago."

DOCTORS DID NOT HELP HER

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. LeClear's Health—Her Own Statement.

Detroit, Mich. — "I am glad to discover a remedy that relieves me from my suffering and pains. For two years I suffered bearing down pains and got all run down. I was under a nervous strain and could not sleep at night. I went to doctors here in the city but they did not do me any good.

"Seeing Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, I tried it. My health improved wonderfully and I am now quite well again. No woman suffering from female ills will regret it if she takes this medicine."—Mrs. JAMES G. LECLEAR. 836 Hunt St., Detroit, Mich.

Another Case.

Philadelphia, Pa. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is all you claim it to be. About two or three days before my periods I would get bad backaches, then pains in right and left sides, and my head would ache. I called the doctor and he said I had organic inflammation. I went to him for a while but did not get well so I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking two bottles I was relieved and finally my troubles left me. I married and have two little girls. I have had no return of the old troubles."—Mrs. CHAS. BOELL, 2650 S. Chadwick St., Phila., Pa.

What Doctor Can Beat This?

In less than three months a physician of Portland, Me., has treated professionally five patients representing five successive generations of the same family, beginning with a centenarian and following in the direct line of descent down to her great-great-grandson. He first attended the old lady, who was ninety-nine years old, for senile gangrene resulting in her death. During her illness he was called on to prescribe for her daughter, aged seventy-five. Next this daughter's son, a florist, aged fifty, fell ill and required attention. Following him, a son, a clerk of twenty-seven, found himself in need of medical aid. And lastly to the clerk's wife was born a male child, whom the doctor was called upon to assist into the world, as he had been summoned to ease the great-great-grandmother's exit from it barely three months before.

DON'TS FOR FOOTBALL

Player Should Not Get Discouraged Early in the Season.

Most Young Players and Many Older Ones Forget That They Have Two Arms—Many Fumbles Caused by Carrying Ball Loosely.

The following don'ts for football players were compiled by a writer in the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Absorb them, you mole skinners:

Don't become discouraged if you are not chosen for the so-called "first team" early in the season. There is no first or second team at the start. By plugging away and working hard you will be selected as a "regular" just as soon as the coach considers you prepared to hold down such a position.

Don't loaf in practice; it's a bad habit to get into and a hard one to get away from. Take the work seriously or not at all.

Don't tell your coach how the game should be played. He is supposed to know it and will do all of the instructing.

Don't forget to read the rules. Most players neglect to do so and are often "sore" when penalized for committing a foul. Ignorance of the rules causes more penalties than anything else.

Don't forget that you have two arms. Most young players, and many older ones, neglect to use the loose arm when carrying the ball. The "stiff arm" is the greatest defense a player has, and its use will often add several yards if manipulated properly. Ward off the tackler, at the tame time throwing your own body aside so as not to lose your stride or overbalance yourself.

Don't carry the ball loosely. Many fumbles are caused by improper carrying. One end of the ball should be chucked into the pocket formed by the bended arm and body and the hand should be spread over the other end of the ball. With the ball thus firmly held the other arm is free to use for protection.

Don't be afraid to fall on the ball whenever it is loose on the ground during play. The average player disregards this rule with disastrous results. A little practice will enable one to fall on the ball in such a way as to eliminate injuries.

Don't "chew the rag" during the game. Remember that your captain is chosen to lead the team and is the only one who is permitted to talk. There are 22 players and if all take time to talk many valuable minutes are wasted.

Don't dispute decisions of the officials. They are selected to enforce the rules and their work is hard enough without additional troubles. It does no good to dispute decisions—let the captain do the conferring or arguing where there is a misunderstanding. The officials are not in a position to see everything that you see and they can see lots of things you can't see.

Don't waste time, when on the gridiron, picking out friends on the side lines or in the stands. Your whole mind should be on the game itself.

Don't be afraid to tackle hard when you have a chance. The player who is afraid stands more chance of being injured than one who is fearless. Hit your man hard and low and hold him—don't let him slip or twist away.

Don't forget to keep your eyes on the ball. Always know where the oval is. This will prevent penalties for starting ahead of the ball, for offside play, and will often prevent opponents from gaining on tricks and passes. Sometimes by keeping the eyes glued on the ball touchdowns are also prevented.

CUBANS WITNESS BIG SERIES

Party of Fans, Headed by President of Almendares Baseball Club, See Giants and Athletics.

Cuban "fans" were among the first to arrive here to see the world's baseball championship series. The leader of the party is Eley Martinez, president of the Almendares baseball club of Havana, and with him were three special correspondents representing Havanna and provincial newspapers as well as a few plain "fans."

Although professional baseball in Cuba is really only about two years old, Senor Martinez said that three baseball clubs were now fully established in the city of Havana and tremendous interest in the game and developed, not only from a local standpoint, but also toward the games in the United States.

"Of course the national language of baseball is American slang," said Senor Martinez, "and we use the same terms in describing points of the game. A fly is a fly, and a strike a strike.

"However, our people have not all caught on to the pronunciation of some of the words in vogue, and you might not recognize what a "hillos" is It is the nearest some get to pronouncing a 'hit.' The umpire calls 'one ball' and not 'uno bola.' When there is a dispute over a decision there is apt to be a medley of languages. In the games with the American teams we have one American umpire and the other is a Cuban.

"There are several Cuban players who have been doing well in this country on the big league teams. For instance, there is Marsans, of the Cincinnati's, who is the manager of the Almendares. We call him the 'Cuban Ty Cobb' and are very proud of him. He ranks second in stealing bases among the big professionals. Then there are two Cubans on the Washington team, Calvo and Acosta, who play ball at home in the winter."

Lord Made Manager of the Mobile Club

Briscoe Lord, former member of the Philadelphia Athletics, world champion outfielder, and more recently of the Boston National league club, will manage the Mobile club, of the Southern association, next year.

His unconditional release from Boston was announced the other day. Lord said that he expects to manage the team from the bench, but may get into the game occasionally.

"Muggsy" McGraw has a contract in his hands ready to sign as manager of the Giants with a yearly stipend of $25,000, effective in 1914. He will then be the highest salaried manager in baseball.

Veteran Ball Player Retires From Service

Jim O'Rourke failed to step to bat in the present American Eastern association season, closing a continuous record of ball playing covering a period of over 36 years. This veteran has played in at least one game every year since joining the National league in 1876. He is now fifty-eight years old. It was only on the advice of a physician that O'Rourke did not play this year. He was a remarkable ball player in his time, batting over .300 in 13 of his 18 years in fast company. Only three players, Dan Brouthers with 15 times, and Hans Wagner with 14, have passed this mark. Adrian Anson holds the record that will probably stand in all baseball history in this respect, batting over .300 20 consecutive times.

The skin would break and look like it had been cut with a knife and my hands were so sore I could hardly bear to put them in water and could hardly use them. When I used them the blood would run out. They would heal a little and then they would get worse than ever again. They were very painful. The eczema got to breaking out on my arms in pimples which itched and burned very badly.

"I used different remedies, also used all kinds of facial creams and ——— on my hands and arms and I did not get any relief until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I cured my hands and eczema with Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Fannie Mostiller, Oct. 5, 1912.

OPPOSE THE ROAD LOAN.

Lancaster County Man Declares That Earth Road System Is Ignored by Highway Plans.

Claiming there is nobody connected with the state highway department who knows how to place the thousands of miles of dirt roads in Pennsylvania in good condition, Dr. Donald McCaskey, of Lancaster county, in an article that appeared in the Pennsylvania Farmer, points out that the highway department as at present organized should not be trusted to spend the $50,000,000 proposed in one of the constitutional amendments.

The department, says Dr. McCaskey, who is a son of former Mayor McCaskey, of Lancaster, has not demonstrated that it can take care of the most important roads—the highways that lead to the railway stations, the country stores, the schools and the markets. To give the highway department $50,000,000, he says, is merely to open the treasury for many a "soft" contract.

McCaskey's Article.

Dr. McCaskey's article follows:

"Press dispatches tell of the organization of the Pennsylvania Good Roads Association, and its advocacy of the proposed $50,000,000 bond issue for better roads. Of course, this means the state's system of stone roads at $15,000 to $30,000 per mile. The officers, numbering about twenty-five, are all prominent and presumably influential in their particular lines of politics, manufacturing or mercantile work, but we fail to find any among their number who are closely interested in or authorities on the construction and maintenance of country roads—the kind that you and I have to travel.

"What we folks in the country want is not a lot of money for somebody to spend whom we do not trust. We want our earth roadways put into one comprehensive state system, and we want a real live road engineer to look after this system and put it into actual execution. It needs to be separated entirely from the stone roads system.

"Mr. Frank Lyons, formerly deputy highway commissioner of New York state, put the earth roadways of the entire state of New York into excellent condition within one year; and he did it within his first year of official duty. He fixed up the country roads which lead from the farms to the railroad stations, to the creameries, the country stores, churches and to the city market places.

How It Was Done.

"Here is how he did it: He hooked two road graders on behind a first-class steam road roller. As soon as an earth road was surveyed by his civil engineers as to its proper width, grading, culverts, etc., Mr. Lyons had his various county road gangs go to work upon a road. Each road was widened to its legal distance. It was graded. Culverts were constructed, and when the crown had been rolled down by the road rollers, the King road drag (they call them road hones in New York state) was put to work by regular and well paid patrolmen. The regular dragging of the earth roads after every rain transformed the roads of the state within one year. The farmers of the Empire State got what was rightfully coming to them. It was Mr. Lyons' system that did the job in every county.

Nothing Doing Here.

"Has anything like this work been attempted in our own great Keystone State with its sixty-seven counties? It could be so if there was anybody in the highway department who knew how and had the nerve to tackle such a job. But I don't believe there is anybody. That is one reason why I am afraid to trust $50,000,000 to this highway department of ours. It has not demonstrated that it can take care of the most important roadways—the highways which lead to the railway stations, country stores, schools and the markets.

"When Pennsylvania's highway system embraces work similar to that of Mr. Lyons, then we can begin to think about a $50,000,000 bond issue. But just now every idea of good roads seems to be to spend money. And just the expenditure of cash will not give us the good country earth roads we want. Our township road supervisors have proven that they do not understand how to manage without a lot of money, and even then the average township road does not reveal the thousands of dollars' worth of labor invested in it.

"Get this fact clearly in your mind. The $50,000,000 road bond issue does not provide for any earth road system of construction and maintenance. The fifty millions merely open the treasury for many a "soft" contract. When we vote for such a tremendous proposition as a $50,000,000 road bond issue we folks who live in the country want our earth roads taken care of with that money along a system of work."
